

unusual living • we know today how important the preservation of nature is and we should research how to use a new style of construction to serve the environment • the principle of our proposal is based on the limitation of the building impact on the existing site and nature • the construction is fully removable • premanufactured materials have been chosen for a fast, recyclable, low cost construction • this 'ascending house' is self-sufficient and the volume of the house is thought for the technical energy installation: a biotop pool, photovoltaic cells for the toilets, washing dishes, household works •

v8c4

